

TPP: The Polluters' Powergrab!

The Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) is an agreement being negotiated between the United States and ten other nations that grants foreign corporations the power to sue our government in international tribunals when our legislatures pass laws and our courts issue rulings that block their environmentally destructive projects and toxic exports. Under TPP, the oil industry and other polluters can demand vast sums in compensation – not only for the money they've already invested – but for profits they MIGHT have made in the future! TPP could have a chilling effect on environmental legislation, potentially cost the US vast sums in legal costs and dispute settlement money, and may lead our government to overturn environmental laws to comply with the tribunal's rulings.

TPP is shrouded in strict secrecy – members of Congress have little or no access to the negotiating texts – but 600 corporate advisers have full access to US proposals and can influence negotiations. The TPP may be completed by October with almost no input from the public, the media, or Congress. Before sending TPP to Congress, President Obama is expected to first call for Congress to vote on Fast Track Authority, which will force Congress to vote on TPP without changing a single word of the agreement – undermining the role the Constitution sets for Congress in international agreements.

HOW CAN WE STOP THIS?

- Call your Senators and your Representative and urge them to vote against Fast Track Authority for TPP. You can find their names and contact info at <http://gjae.org/leg>.
- Learn more and sign up to get involved at <http://gjae.org/tpp> or call Global Justice for Animals and the Environment at (718) 218-4523.

TPP: The Polluters' Powergrab!

The Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) is an agreement being negotiated between the United States and ten other nations that grants foreign corporations the power to sue our government in international tribunals when our legislatures pass laws and our courts issue rulings that block their environmentally destructive projects and toxic exports. Under TPP, the oil industry and other polluters can demand vast sums in compensation – not only for the money they've already invested – but for profits they MIGHT have made in the future! TPP could have a chilling effect on environmental legislation, potentially cost the US vast sums in legal costs and dispute settlement money, and may lead our government to overturn environmental laws to comply with the tribunal's rulings.

TPP is shrouded in strict secrecy – members of Congress have little or no access to the negotiating texts – but 600 corporate advisers have full access to US proposals and can influence negotiations. The TPP may be completed by October with almost no input from the public, the media, or Congress. Before sending TPP to Congress, President Obama is expected to first call for Congress to vote on Fast Track Authority, which will force Congress to vote on TPP without changing a single word of the agreement – undermining the role the Constitution sets for Congress in international agreements.

HOW CAN WE STOP THIS?

- Call your Senators and your Representative and urge them to vote against Fast Track Authority for TPP. You can find their names and contact info at <http://gjae.org/leg>.
- Learn more and sign up to get involved at <http://gjae.org/tpp> or call Global Justice for Animals and the Environment at (718) 218-4523

TPP: The Polluters' Powergrab!

The Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) is an agreement being negotiated between the United States and ten other nations that grants foreign corporations the power to sue our government in international tribunals when our legislatures pass laws and our courts issue rulings that block their environmentally destructive projects and toxic exports. Under TPP, the oil industry and other polluters can demand vast sums in compensation – not only for the money they've already invested – but for profits they MIGHT have made in the future! TPP could have a chilling effect on environmental legislation, potentially cost the US vast sums in legal costs and dispute settlement money, and may lead our government to overturn environmental laws to comply with the tribunal's rulings.

TPP is shrouded in strict secrecy – members of Congress have little or no access to the negotiating texts – but 600 corporate advisers have full access to US proposals and can influence negotiations. The TPP may be completed by October with almost no input from the public, the media, or Congress. Before sending TPP to Congress, President Obama is expected to first call for Congress to vote on Fast Track Authority, which will force Congress to vote on TPP without changing a single word of the agreement – undermining the role the Constitution sets for Congress in international agreements.

HOW CAN WE STOP THIS?

- Call your Senators and your Representative and urge them to vote against Fast Track Authority for TPP. You can find their names and contact info at <http://gjae.org/leg>.
- Learn more and sign up to get involved at <http://gjae.org/tpp> or call Global Justice for Animals and the Environment at (718) 218-4523.

TPP: The Polluters' Powergrab!

The Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) is an agreement being negotiated between the United States and ten other nations that grants foreign corporations the power to sue our government in international tribunals when our legislatures pass laws and our courts issue rulings that block their environmentally destructive projects and toxic exports. Under TPP, the oil industry and other polluters can demand vast sums in compensation – not only for the money they've already invested – but for profits they MIGHT have made in the future! TPP could have a chilling effect on environmental legislation, potentially cost the US vast sums in legal costs and dispute settlement money, and may lead our government to overturn environmental laws to comply with the tribunal's rulings.

TPP is shrouded in strict secrecy – members of Congress have little or no access to the negotiating texts – but 600 corporate advisers have full access to US proposals and can influence negotiations. The TPP may be completed by October with almost no input from the public, the media, or Congress. Before sending TPP to Congress, President Obama is expected to first call for Congress to vote on Fast Track Authority, which will force Congress to vote on TPP without changing a single word of the agreement – undermining the role the Constitution sets for Congress in international agreements.

HOW CAN WE STOP THIS?

- Call your Senators and your Representative and urge them to vote against Fast Track Authority for TPP. You can find their names and contact info at <http://gjae.org/leg>.
- Learn more and sign up to get involved at <http://gjae.org/tpp> or call Global Justice for Animals and the Environment at (718) 218-4523.