

Thanks to U.S. trade policy, this water has been fortified for your health and our profits with essential minerals and heavy metals, including: cyanide, arsenic, selenium, and mercury!

PACIFIC RIM

mineral water

"A little bit goes a long way!"

U.S. Congress approved!

*bottled
at the source
at the El Dorado
gold mine in El Salvador*

PACIFIC RIM
MINING CORP.

a product of

PACIFIC RIM mineral water

For years, Pacific Rim Mining of Vancouver, Canada, has wanted to mine for gold near the town of San Isidro, El Salvador. However, the Salvadoran government - under the influence of radical "environmentalists" and "community organizations" - has refused to grant our company the permits we need to get at the gold that is rightfully ours. We just want it so badly... It's SO shiny!

But now, thanks to trade policies enacted by the U.S. Congress - and a bogus subsidiary we set up in Reno - we were able to file a lawsuit against El Salvador that is being heard by a secretive tribunal at the World Bank. If all goes well, the Salvadoran government will be punished - to the tune of hundreds of millions of dollars - for its audacious insistence upon protecting the environment from the contamination that mines such as ours routinely produce.

Because this lawsuit could drag on for years, we have also branched out into the bottled beverage business. You hold in your hands, Mr. or Mrs. Consumer, our special mineral water - featuring many of the special ingredients* we might one day add to El Salvador's water supply should we be allowed to open our mine.

**We plan to use two tons of cyanide at the El Dorado mine every day, and use up over 10 liters of clean water per second!*

(This bottle actually contains green tea and chocolate cake mix)

For more information, visit www.seattlecispes.org